Josh's Final Project Site

My final project site will serve as a portfolio to showcase my accomplishments in MI 349 and other curricular and extracurricular projects in a user-friendly format

My final project site will be laid out in a way that recruiters and colleagues will be able to see what projects in web development and other areas I have undertaken during my time in college. My goal is to create a "live portfolio" that allows visitors to "tour" different projects and see them progress as did they when I worked on them. I want users to be able to see different areas of my work, both curricular and extracurricular, as well as projects for work or for personal enjoyment. In addition to my projects, I want my site to have features that allow visitors to connect with me personally, some different ways to contact me as well as links to my social media. I want this portfolio to be aesthetically pleasing but also have personality that matches my own.

Personas

Recruiter
Using my site to learn more about my accomplishments for purposes of hiring me

Colleague
Using my site for purposes of learning more about me personally and what skills I possess when working in teams.

Friends and Family
Using my site for purposes of seeing what I am up to in my life, being able to check my personal links/contact info to stay in touch

Comps

Resumes

Social Media

Cover Letters

Linkedin

Personal PowerPoints